

Jeff “Houndog” Schiller

Musician – Composer – Filmmaker

Jeff Schiller is a professional musician with degrees in music and film. His passion for these two disciplines, and their inherent abilities to tell stories, has been his motivation to pursue a career encompassing both.

As a musician he specializes as a performer on saxophones, clarinets, flutes, oboe and voice, and also works as a composer, arranger, contractor, copyist and educator. His work in film involves scoring, sound design, orchestration, foley, adr, writing, directing, editing and acting.

Based in New York City and also known as Houndog, Jeff has enjoyed touring the world with artists such as Gloria Gaynor; appearing in over 100 Broadway shows a year; working as a studio musician for TV, film and in collaboration with other recording artists. His career includes numerous concert performances, from classical to blues, Carnegie Hall to the Tonight Show with Jimmy Fallon.

His diverse performing, compositional and arranging styles have been heard over the years in many venues, markets and media. These include Broadway productions, radio, TV and internet jingles, soundtracks of major and independent motion pictures, network and cable TV shows, numerous original recordings and in countless live concert performances.

In addition to his professional activities, Jeff is also an avid bowler, bike rider, farmer’s market patron, chef, sniffer and tail-wagger.
